

Audubon Center at Garden Creek

Audubon Center at Garden Creek serves as an outdoor classroom where your students can reinforce math concepts, write poetry, or utilize reading skills while experiencing the local habitats of Garden Creek. Science concepts can also be taught by exploring habitats, seasons, life cycles or predator-prey relationships. Call or email Wanda Peters at 307 473-1987 wpeters@audubon.org for more detailed information.

The Audubon Center at Garden Creek (ACGC) was established in 1998 at the base of Casper Mountain. ACGC is a quiet piece of serenity on 450 acres of land with Garden Creek flowing through the property.

The Nature Trail at ACGC

The Education Center is a great place to watch the wildlife that greets you at the ACGC!

Audubon staff and volunteers provide programming on various natural history topics and assist teachers in designing lessons to complement core classroom concepts. While field trips can be scheduled throughout the year, a winter adaptations field trip can be especially memorable.

Audubon Adventures Classroom Newspapers can make great pre-and post-visit materials, and look for new traveling trunks filled with resources and lessons to help teach science concepts and math and reading as well!

Contact:
Wanda Peters
(307) 473-1987
101 Garden Creek Rd.
www.audubonwyoming.org

Nature Center:
Weekdays 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
And group tours by appointment

Nature Trail:
Daily sunrise-sunset
Please sign guest book

Admission:
Donations encouraged

Garden Creek flows right through the property, making for excellent educational opportunities!