The Proficiency Assessment of Wyoming Students (PAWS) is administered to all students grades 3-8 and 11 annually. Students are tested in math, reading and writing. In 2007-08, a science test also will be added. Results of the assessment provide a "snapshot" into how students are performing against state standards at a given point. The figures represent the percentage of students who scored proficient or advanced on the 2006-07 assessment.
